E3 IS OVER AT LAST!

And boy are we tired. It's nearly time for bed now...

You probably think that going to E3 is all exotic and glamorous. Well, it's not. Going to E3 is hot, sweaty and this year, a little bit disappointing. We had some laffs, that's for sure. We saw some cool games that you won't get to play for months, but really, we wanted to see stuff like M2 (which is now cancelled) and the 64DD, which Nintendo mysteriously refuses to show. Still you can't win 'em all.

We liked Atlanta and its friendly folks, especially the weird naked guy in the park who waved at us in a friendly fashion. If you live in Atlanta and you're over 21 - go to the Vortex Bar - it's the best pub/restaurant in the world.

FRANK'S TOP TEN!

JUST LIKE DAVID
LETTERMAN'S
ONLY NOT AS FUNNY!

Top Ten Rumble Pack alternatives!

10. MUMBLE PACK

Making sounds that you can't quite hear, the mumble pack is designed to annoy and confuse you.

9. HUMBLE PACK

"Of course, I'm not nearly as important or impressive as the actual Rumble pack, but I try my best and I often feel it's not enough. But I'm happy with my lot.

8. STUMBLE PACK

This one is a plastic container full of booze. Swig it back and boom! You're stumbling around. Very realistic sensations as you wake up on the bathroom floor.

7. THIMBLE PACK

Protects your fingers from needle jabs.

6. FUMBLE PACK

Falls out because it doesn't quite fit, so you're constantly trying to fix it and catch it.

5. RUMBLE IN THE BRONX PACK

Strictly for Jackie Chan fans. Kicks your ass using a broom, a ladder and a double decker bus.

4. LET'S GET READY TO RUMBLE PACK

OK, grapple fans! It's the ultimate spandex plug-in for your N64 pad. Comes with canvas mat and bad acting lessons.

3. GUMBEL PACK

A Bryant Gumbel add-on which interviews you in a sympathetic manner and hates David Letterman.

2. TUMBLE PACK

Backflipping super add-on. Can't think of a practical purpose.

1. GRUMBLE PACK

Constantly complains about your pathetic gaming performance. "You're crap at all games", it cries.
